

Stranded flood victims at Alton welcome Army Reserve amphibious "ducks" which battled their way through turbulent waters to make the rescue. Volunteer Civil Defense workers had set up an advance communications network, with portable radios. Community Hall in Alton was the home for scores of people stranded there.